The Haskalah and the Jewish Salonières of Berlin:
No Mismatch

Prof. Christoph Schulte (University of Potsdam)

The Jewish Salonières of Berlin have often been affiliated with German Romanticism. This lecture proposes a different model: the Jewish Salonières of Berlin were the daughters, sisters or wives of Maskilim, their salons were a heritage, setting and place of the Haskalah. In a gender perspective, the Jewish salons of Berlin demarcate a new era of Jewish-Christian relations: the enlightenment model of Jewish-Christian male friendships is replaced by the new model of hetero-erotic Jewish-Christian relations, wherein the Jewish Salonières are empowered and play a leading intellectual and social role.
